

DALLAS HERALD

C. R. PRYOR, Editor.

J. W. SWINDELLS, Associate Editor.

DALLAS, TEXAS.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1861.

FAIR WARNING!

NO MORE CREDIT!

We are compelled to withdraw our credit from all persons living outside of this country, unless the order is accompanied with the sum or payment made by authorized agents, and the paper ordered delivered.

7 Cash or delivery of all Job Work! &c.

Notice.

P. DAVIS, Esq., is an authorized agent for Dallas Herald, and is advertising an account created by him with full acknowledgment of his services.

SWINDELLS & LANE.

REMEMBER THE ELECTION

Saturday, February 23d Inst.

To Ratify or Reject the Action of the STATE CONVENTION.

Public Speaking.

Capt. John Henry Brown, of Belton, a member of the State Convention, will address the people on the crisis and in favor of Secession, as follows:

McKinney, Collin " " 22 "

Waco, Baylor " " 23 "

All interested Ladies and Gentlemen are requested at each place.

To the Patrons of the Herald.

We earnestly request all who are indebted to this Office to come forward and make prompt payment, in order to enable us to meet our engagements, which are now coming due. We are in need of money now, having gone largely in debt for our new offices, and are forced to make this appeal and to insist on immediate payment of all accounts due us, however small.

Attention is called to the "Notice" of Mr. A. Shirky, who advertise that he is entitled, in future, to do a cash business.

See the advertisement of Mr. J. T. Hester, Chambers' Creek, Ellis county.—He offers two tracts of land with improvements, for sale, and proposes to give a long credit on them. Read the advertisement. We know the location to be desirable.

A. Y. Fowler Esq., of Fort Worth, offers a reward of $300, for the recovery of a negro boy, and the thief who stole him—be it his advertisement.

To call the particular attention of the public to the Card of "The Rockfield House" in this place.

WE CALLING—We ask the attention of the readers who are interested in Wool, to the advertisement of Mr. Wm. T. Nance, which will be found in today's paper.—Mr. N. has the machines which were recently owned by O. B. Nance & Son, Ten Mile Creek, 12 miles South of Dallas, and having added considerable new machinery to his establishment, desires the patronage of all who have wool to card.

We take pleasure in referring the reader to the Card of Mr. O. B. Bailey, Look and Gun-Smith, in today's paper. We know Mr. Bailey to be an excellent workman, having the proof of his skill, now in our possession, in the shape of one of Colt's revolving pistols, which passed through the hands of the 8th July last, and was to all appearances, completely ruined, but which has been made as good as new by Mr. Bailey. All who have firearms which need repairing, should give Mr. Bailey a call. Work may be left for him at the Herald Office.

Gen. J. J. Good is doing good service in the Northern counties of this State.—His speeches on the Right of Secession have been much complimented. So many changes are known to have occurred in Collin county, that it is now high time that county will cleave itself and rank high in the list of Secession counties.

Hon. Judge Borod addressed the citizens of Collin County, last Saturday, at McKinney. We hear his address highly spoken of, and we are glad that he was invited to discuss the leading questions of the times, before those people.

The Messenger promised that Dr. Martin would shoot a good deal of light upon the questions he intended to discuss last Saturday. If the Honorable Dr. Martin had more light than he needed for his own individual course, we trust he did shoot pretty freely, for subdivision is a dark subject and requires all the light that it leaders can "shed," to make it obvious and intelligible to all.

A Post Script to the letter says: "Since writing the above, I have seen Gen. Chilly McIntosh, he has given out his Broken Days for a council, for the purpose of consulting upon the present crisis. This will be held on the 12th inst."

Texas will extend a cordial greeting to these neighbors, whose interests are identical with our own. Texas will give them the right hand of friendship, and be as one.

The passage of the Ordinance of Secession and the endorsement of the Convention by the Legislature, have placed the Submissionists in a decided "fix." Like Haman in Cyrus, they find it as unpleasant to recede as to advance. They must do one of two things, back down from their submissionist stand, or advocate their doctrines to the end. This latter will lead them to straight-out Lincolnism—it will be a short cut and the Lincoln apostles will be full-fledged free-soilers.

The secession feeling is gaining strength throughout the State. The best men are for the Union, and the most ignorant and Everett electors, Col. Sutler and Col. Yell, are secession candidates in their respective counties. The change in public sentiment is rapid, and this State is certain to secede.

Pensacola Forts. The Mississippi regiments have gone home. Brig. Gen. Clark, of Mississippi, having gone to Pensacola to demand either a fight for them, or their release. The commandant is at Pensacola, no collision will take place with the rebels. The change in public sentiment is rapid, and this State is certain to secede.

The McKinney Messenger says that Messrs. Epperson, Bogart and Throckmorton give stirring accounts of the "immense debt that is being steadily added upon the State." Did they tell the Messengers that it was tried to saddle on a little more, by claiming mileage for one thousand miles, instead of five hundred?

Rev. Jas. C. Wilson is no more! He died, speedily, of paralysis, at his home in Dallas. A statesman and an orator, a learned divine and devoted Christian, he has had few superiors in this or any other country. The people of Texas mourn his loss, as children mourn for a beloved father.

Rev. Jas. C. Wilson is no more! He died, speedily, of paralysis, at his home in Dallas. A statesman and an orator, a learned divine and devoted Christian, he has had few superiors in this or any other country. The people of Texas mourn his loss, as children mourn for a beloved father.

The McKinney Messenger says that Messrs. Epperson, Bogart and Throckmorton give stirring accounts of the "immense debt that is being steadily added upon the State." Did they tell the Messengers that it was tried to saddle on a little more, by claiming mileage for one thousand miles, instead of five hundred?

A telegraphic despatch from Washington of the 18th inst., says that Hon. L. T. Wigfall and Senator Johnson, of Arkansas, were arranging matters for a duel.

Rev. Jas. C. Wilson is no more! He died, speedily, of paralysis, at his home in Dallas. A statesman and an orator, a learned divine and devoted Christian, he has had few superiors in this or any other country. The people of Texas mourn his loss, as children mourn for a beloved father.

The Malcontents' Address.
A document has recently made its appearance addressed to the people of Texas, and signed by a few malcontents. 4 Senators, 14 members of the House, and seven Delegates to the State Convention. Out of the whole number that represents the State in our Legislature, only 18 are found who openly set at defiance the will of the people and who openly advocate the doctrines of Secession. Out of 180 members of the State Convention, only 62 voted against the independence of Texas and the right of Secession. This alone is sufficient to brand their address with suspicion. If hundreds of others acted in diametric opposition to the twenty-four, the question will naturally occur, are all the rest unsound and these 21 alone in possession of all the virtue and patriotism in the country?

The Address is constructed upon the favorite dodge of the Subcession party, a semi-free-lance bandit, appealing to the passions and prejudices of a class of people, which we believe, does not exist to any extent in Texas; we mean a class of men opposed to slave-holders because they are slaves. This class is not numerous in Texas; for our non-slaveholders are as true to the institution of slavery as the largest slaveholders themselves. This appeal of the malcontents was conceived in ignorance of the fact, and was promulgated upon the false issue they have themselves raised. The Address is an insult to the intelligence and loyalty of Southern people. This is the main feature of this unequalled for production, but there are others equally inconsistent with truth and practice. These men complain that the Convention represented a majority of the people of Texas; yet it is well known, that some of them who signed the address, actually abhorred the people by entries, by letter and every means possible, to stay away from the polls and not vote at all for Delegates! This is easily established, and one of them was recently charged with it in public discussion.

Again this precious document is signed by those members who are non-residents and do not represent any constituency whatever. Such being the case, what are their individual opinions worth? The former constituency of one of these pertinacious, pay-loving non-residents have induced him to resign; another is known to be so utterly odious to the people that elected him, that he has never been back to give an account of his "handship"; and that country is set far hundred miles from Austin.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

The Commissioners from North Carolina presented their credentials on the 5th, and were tendered seats in the Convention during open sessions.

The Commissioners from Virginia was also in the City.

Hon. Howell Cobb, of Georgia, was elected President of the Convention, and J. J. Crittenden, of Alabam, was elected Secretary.

The sessions of the convention have been mostly secret. The following dispaches are dated the 7th and 8th:

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb. 7.—The constitution of the United States has been adopted by the State of Alabama, with the addition of five free states.

Montgomery, Feb.